

Annual Report 2018

About AASLD Foundation

As the largest private supporter of hepatology research and career development in the United States, the American Association for the Study of Liver Diseases (AASLD) Foundation fills the void between bright, talented researchers and clinicians and the financial resources needed to:

- Encourage ongoing discovery
- Keep pace with the need for more physicians and health care professionals trained to provide care for patients with liver disease
- Share cutting-edge hepatology knowledge with physicians worldwide

Our Mission

To invest in innovative hepatology research and in the people who study and treat liver disease.

Our Vision

Prevent and cure liver disease.

Our Fiscal Year

The Foundation's Fiscal Year 2018 ran from July 1, 2017-June 30, 2018.

The audited financials provided below reflect this timeframe. Application cycles for the Foundation's programs run on a calendar year (January 1, 2018-December 31, 2018). The program information provided in this report reflects this timeframe.

Research and Career Development Awards

In response to the continued growth in highly meritorious applications, the introduction of new Pilot and Bridge Awards and additional resources from the Tomorrow's Cures campaign fundraising efforts, the Foundation committed to the highest awards investment in the history of the Research and Career Development Awards program—$4.06 million.

In total, the Foundation has invested more than $47 million in awards since 2000.

“The AASLD Foundation continues to support cutting-edge research at a time when the funding climate for physician investigators is extremely challenging. For me, the AASLD Foundation Bridge Award could not have come at a more pivotal time.”

Cynthia A. Moylan, MD, MHS

Awardee Profiles

Maria Serena Longhi, MD, PhD

AWARD: Autoimmune Hepatitis Pilot Research Award

RESEARCH PROJECT TITLE:
Regulation of aryl hydrocarbon receptor signaling in autoimmune hepatitis

INSTITUTION: Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center

MENTOR: Simon Robson, MD, PhD, FRCP, FAASLD

“The Autoimmune Hepatitis Pilot Research Award is very important for the work that I’m planning to do now. I’m looking at my work from a slightly different angle, looking at new molecules and how their interactions could somehow be impacting the balance of the liver. It’s very challenging, but exciting. The award is so important at this stage, when you want to start a new project. It enables you to try something new, to continue my studies, but with a new perspective.”

Alberto Zanetto, Jr., MD

AWARD: Clinical and Translational Research Fellowship in Liver Disease

RESEARCH PROJECT TITLE:
Role of endogenous heparinoids on the hemostatic balance in cirrhotic patients with acute kidney injury

INSTITUTION: Yale University

MENTOR: Guadalupe Garcia-Tsao, MD, FAASLD

“When I received the notification that I had been selected to receive the AASLD Foundation Clinical and Translational Research Fellowship, I could not believe it. As a young physician interested in clinical and translational research, the possibility to spend a period in the United States at Yale University is of high importance. I think that this period will advance my career. It will also be one of the most important moments of my life.”

Abstract Travel Awards

Abstract Travel Awards enable promising early-career investigators to attend and present their work at either The Liver Meeting® or Digestive Disease Week® (DDW).

Emerging Liver Scholars Program

The Emerging Liver Scholars Program promotes the study of hepatology among residents who have the potential for a career in academic medicine and who have not yet determined their long-term career goals. The program is targeted toward medical, surgical and pediatric residents and their mentors to attend The Liver Meeting® and participate in other AASLD activities throughout their training.

Fundamentals of Liver Disease

There is currently a shortage of trained providers capable of diagnosing and treating different liver diseases. Fundamentals of Liver Disease, our free online resource, helps primary care physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners and other health care providers to improve their knowledge and clinical skills in hepatology. Courses cover Cirrhosis, Hepatitis B, Abnormal Liver Tests, NASH/NAFLD and Hepatitis C.

Tomorrow's Cures Campaign

In August 2017, the Foundation embarked upon a bold fundraising initiative to support new cures for liver diseases. In our lifetime, advancements in liver disease research and care have become extraordinary promises of hope for those suffering from liver disease. From liver transplantation to HCV cures, the lives of countless patients have been transformed through outstanding patient care and innovative cures.

However, liver disease continues to be a major health problem. To get closer to a world without liver disease, a consistent, stable source of funding is required. That's why the Foundation launched the Tomorrow's Cures campaign.

$7 million

has been raised from our members, industry partners, foundations and grateful patients and their families as of December 31, 2018.

In 2018, AASLD Foundation received the largest gift from an industry donor to-date.

Inspiring Donors

In 2018, the Foundation received generous support from a number of individuals and events, including:

- Anna S. Lok, MD, FAASLD

The Anna S. Lok Fund for Excellence in Research and Training

Established an endowment to support an Advanced/Transplant Hepatology Award, which encourages the careers of exceptional hepatology trainees.

- Indiana University Division of Hepatology

Inspired by Drs. Naga Chalasani and Raj Vuppalanchi, Indiana University Division of Hepatology hosted a Tomorrow's Cures campaign special event to introduce their colleagues and community to the Foundation's work.

Collectively, in just one night, they raised close to $100,000.
